

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Thanks to the editors of the following publications and executive directors of other media in which some of the poems in this book first appeared:

- City Paper* for their 1994 Poetry Prize and MoonRabbit Review (1996) for “ex machina,” later “out of the machine.”
- Colors Magazine* (1997) for early drafts of parts of identity papers and their finalist prize.
- Crab Orchard Review* (2001) for “the returning.”
- Divide: The University of Colorado’s Journal of Writing and Ideas* (Fall 2006) for “crossing walt whitman bridge/the returning.”
- Drimala Records at <http://www.drimala.com> for producing the 2002 CD of identity papers, which dramatizes almost all of Part I of this book.
- Ducts* (Summer 2002) at ducts.org for publishing “ER Entries” and “crossing walt whitman bridge,” as audio files and as text excerpts of identity papers.
- Many Mountains Moving* (Vol. III. No. 2, 1997) for “the accident of our illusions / let the sky fall far through me” and Many Mountains Moving (Vol. IV. No. 3, 2002) for “a happy death / in this wild cold field” and “the lambs.”
- The Mural Arts Program of Philadelphia for excerpting “the accident of our illusions/let the sky fall far through me” on the 12th and Vine Street Chinatown Mural and for installing the whole poem on a plaque at pedestrian-level.
- Polyphony: a magazine of narrative and dramatic poetry* (geocities.com/polyphonymag, December, 2003) for the title part of identity papers.
- Southern Poetry Review* (1997) for an early version of “the christ machine” and (1996) for an early version of “crossing walt whitman bridge.”
- Strangers in a Homeland* (Ashland Poetry Press, 2001) for early versions of the Preface and “the lambs.”
- The Unitarian Universalist Poets: A Contemporary American Survey* (1996) for an early version of “The Path / writing to save my life.”

Thanks also to the many people and arts organizations whose roles—onstage and off—helped in the odyssey of the creation of this work: Robyn F. Young (who appears as himself in the poem) and Sara De Angelis, Hsiao-Ming Chen (who is represented imaginatively in the poem), Detective Ferraro of the Brooklyn Police Department, Jay and Helen Loo, Leon Loo, and Paulina Loo.

Thanks to John Gregg Kulka, who heard at the Asian Pacific American Writers' Conference reading at Hunter College (NYC, 11/11-12/94) the first public reading of "identity papers," and thanks to dISorient Journalzine for sponsoring me there.

Thanks to the New Jersey State Council on the Arts for sponsoring me to appear with Al Young in the "Notable Writers and Poets Series" at the Walt Whitman Cultural Arts Center in Camden (10/8/95) where I read an early version of "identity papers." And thanks to Dave and Barb Daniels who supported me in so many ways at that event.

Thanks to the Loose Canon Writers' Collective, my friends who read early incarnations of this work: Lori-Nan Engler, Simone Zelitch, Glen Weldon, David Moolten, Marcus Cafagña, Sylvia Glassman, Sue Sun Yom, Lisa Sewell, Shankar Vedantam, Robyn Edelstein, and Francis Hagen.

Thanks to Gayle Isa of the Asian Arts Initiative of Philadelphia for sponsoring guest artist Denise Uyehara, whose workshop inspired part of this poem, and thanks to Denise herself, whose sublime spirit was so deeply moving.

Thanks to Mytili Jagannathan and Shivaani Selvaraj, also of the Asian Arts Initiative, for sponsoring the first collaboration with percussionist Toshi Makihara and, later, a performance of identity papers with Toshi and me at the Community Education Center (09/27-28/97).

Countless thanks are due to Toshi for improvising and composing so much great music for the sake of the poetry, which helped the words to find their rhythms.

Thanks to Kerry Sherin-Wright, then at Kelly Writers' House at University of Pennsylvania, for having Toshi and me on 88.5 FM WXPB as part of "Live from Writer's House" (03/23/97 and 03/25/01).

Thanks to A Magazine, which sponsored performances with Toshi and me at the University of Pennsylvania (04/03/97) and Swarthmore College (04/06/97).

There is no way to express the debt to actress Lori-Nan Engler, whose many gifts made many of the personae so much more profound. She also made the poetry-music duo into a dramatic trio collaboration that ultimately became a performance at the Painted Bride Art Center of Philadelphia (03/14/99).

Thanks to Philip Egert, of Drimala Records, who heard a recording of the Painted Bride Art Center performance and pulled over his car to listen, which resulted in the contract with Drimala to produce the studio recording of the identity papers CD at Westwires Recording between April and June 2001.

Thanks to Wayne Becker, the audio engineering genius of Westwires, and thanks to the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts for a Special Opportunity Stipend Grant, which supported the CD production.

Thanks to the photographer/playwright Joseph Sorrentino, who traveled with me around Philadelphia to take the b/w cover images for the CD and the book.

There is an incalculable debt to Sharon Olds, in whose Fall 1998 NYU workshop most of the long poem found final form. There are also great debts to Amy S. Wentworth, Lidia Torres, Lucy Anderson, John Mulrooney, Dawn Desmarais (“Crickett”), Jaymie S., and Stuart Greenhouse. For his appreciation and support, I must also thank Galway Kinnell. There are debts also to Yusef Komunyakaa for his appreciation and inspiration.

Thanks to Don Weinberg and the Cafe for the Mind for sponsoring Toshi, Lori and me to perform the completed identity papers at the Free Library of Philadelphia (03/20/01).

Many thanks to the Greater Philadelphia Cultural Alliance for a large grant to perform this work a dozen times, including shows at Kelly Writers’ House with Lori and Toshi (02/05/02), the Teaching Center of Community College of Philadelphia with Lori (03/01/02), Chester County Books with Lori (03/12/02), The NotCoffeeHouse with Lori and Toshi (04/07/02), the Asian Arts Initiative Rap Series with Lori and Toshi (04/19/02), and Robin’s Bookstore with Lori and Toshi (05/01/02). And thanks to those who facilitated all of the events, especially Kerry Sherin-Wright, Jen Bryant, Richard Frey, Gayle Isa and Larry Robin.

Thanks to Dona L. Stein for hosting my readings, including parts of identity papers, on “The Poetry Show” on FM 88.9 KRFC, Fort Collins, CO (2003-2004, 2006).

Thanks to the Colorado Poetry Festival audience, including Sara Whelan, at University of Colorado at Denver, for urging me to read the most violent parts of identity papers (04/23/04). And especial thanks to Sara Whelan of the Colorado Center for the Book for her generous advocacy of this work.

Thanks to many other friends for their appreciation and understanding: Tim and Kare Fay, Jim Hontz and Phaedra Tavlarides, Hwa Yol Jung, J. L. Schnabel, Naomi Horii and Jim Uba, Gary Hassay and Pamela Fearing, Tamara Oakman, Diane Guarnieri, Gwyneth Bacon, Jenna Randall, Larry Belt, Siani Taylor, Cindy Giddle, Patrick Kelly, Doug Buchholz, Doug Swauger, Danny Romero, Gloria Ware, Judy Engle, Susan Brennan, Brian Patrick Heston, Adam Fieled, Erik Nilsen, Barbara Sorensen, Jeffery Bahr, Bob King & Beth Franklin, Sharon Wilson, Emily Golson, Sharron & Jim Riesberg, Lloyd Worley, Cate Wiley, Jake York, Rita Kiefer, Veronica Patterson, Kathy Winograd, Stephen Haven, Susan Terris, Thad Rutkowski, and Patrick Lawler.

Thanks to Barbara Sorensen also for arranging the identity papers reading at Book Buffs, Ltd. in Denver, and to actress Alyssa Carpenter for dramatizing some of the voices so beautifully (04/28/06).

Thanks to past and present students for their enthused support of my work: Ken Park, Hilton Robinson, Jamie Romero, Gary Villeneuve, Eryl Christine Rehnberg, Ed Day, Justin Couch, Amanda Salfiti, Loren Hutchins, Gwen Wagner, Erika Hildner, Jessica Walter, Loren Hellem, Tom Wallingford, Mike Martinkus, Andrew McCown, James Kerley, Cynthia Swan, Kim Hansen and Ron Swarztrauber.

And, finally, thanks to Matt Davis and Sonya Unrein of Ghost Road Press for publishing this book.
